

The Living Hour: The Lord's Prayer for Daily Life is an SBNR (Spiritual But Not Religious) book that believes reason and faith must walk hand in hand. It will challenge your preconceptions and help you acquire new perspectives on The Lord's Prayer, Christianity, and a life of faith, while also encouraging you to ask new questions and explore fresh answers within the context of your own experience. A modern meditation on The Lord's Prayer, The Living Hour is written for progressive Christians, Unitarians, and all who seek a richer spiritual life. The work is divided into two parts: The Living Hour commentary and the New Century Gospels (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John). The commentary includes over 200 bookmarked citations and takes you below the surface meaning of The Lord's Prayer's words and Jesus's larger teachings to discover fresh interpretations of the metaphors and parables contained in the Gospels. The New Century Gospels included as part of the book uses the "Twentieth Century New Testament" as its primary resource. Subsequent edits were made after careful consideration of the King James Bible and the current forms of modern English usage. It is hoped that the resulting text will be enjoyed by both first time readers and those long familiar with the Gospel stories of Jesus Christ.
